

ABSTRACT

METHOD FOR THE DETERMINATION OF PROSTHETIC INFECTIONS

A method for the laboratory determination of prosthetic infections is described. This method, performed on biological fluids isolated from patients, is based on the detection of antibodies specific for the polysaccharides produced by bacteria colonizing prosthetic devices.